Judge Leads Spiritual Enrichment Week

Judge Walter S. Criswell of Jacksonville, Florida led the annual Fall Week of Spiritual Enrichment at Little Joe's Church, October 1-4. The services began with an observance of the Lord's Supper which followed the first message on "The Creation." He spoke each evening at 7:30 and each morning at 10 o'clock in Fellowship Hall where he led a discussion for parents.

Judge Criswell, retired since 1954, presided over the Jacksonville Juvenile Court for more than 30 years. He was one of the founders of the Boy's Home of Jacksonville. An Episcopalian, he has been Chairman of the Layman's League of the Diocese of Florida and is a Lay Reader of his Church. He has continued his service to the youth of Florida and to the Juvenile Court as Editor of the National Journal of Juvenile Court Judges, and as Edi-

THE THANKSGIVING OFFERING IS THE LIFE LINE OF THE HOME!

If You Don't Give—We Don't Eat

The big bell sounds the call at six-thirty o'clock and boys and girls begin to roll and tumble and shake their tousled heads. It is time to get up! Even before the rising bell rang, the dietician and students had the kitchen humming, getting breakfast ready.

During the school term, in the early morning hours, everyone is in a hustle. The dining room must be cleared, beds must be made, porches and living rooms swept, several pounds of tooth paste used, hair combed and faces made to sparkle, ready for the teacher in the classroom. The school buses roll up on the campus around eight o'clock and students from the fifth grade through the twelfth must be ready to board the buses to head for the Troutman School while the children in the primary grades must head toward the school building on the campus for a day of learning.

Three-thirty in the afternoon finds the big buses returning to the campus and children pouring forth. As they light, they break into groups headed for their own cottages.

There is much to be done between school and supper.

For the girls—cottage cleaning and mending, table setting and floor sweeping, washing and ironing in the laundry, cutting and stitching in the sewing room, and—oh, yes!—the play that must come in. In the spare time, a good story, television program or some music.

For the boys—work in the gardens, cleaning up the campus, milking the cows, feeding the calves, spraying the orchard, gathering the fruit, hauling the hay or gathering the corn, mending broken pipes or firing the boiler, mailing the "Messenger" or driving a truck—these and many more —with the special time for football practice or the workout on the basketball court or maybe a game of "tag or touch."

Supper brings the big family together again—laughter and play echo across the campus in the dusk of the evening—then books—and study—and practices—and baths — and bed — and THE DAY ENDS.

TROUTMAN POSTS 20-6 NPC WIN

Troutman's Bobcats, reaching the halfway point of their 1961 schedule, notched their second victory of the North Piedmont Conference campaign last night, assuring Coach R. G. Calhoun's chances of a better finish than their 1960 venture.

The Bobcats, outdistanced statistically except through the air and in the final score by West Rowan's Falcons last night, had to come from behind to claim a 20-6 triumph.

West Rowan drew first scoring blood in the second period when the Falcons made good use of a Troutman gamble. The Bobcats, backed up with a first and 10 on the Troutman 10, went to the air and Charlie McLean's aerial was intercepted by Bill Hall of the Falcons on the Troutman 26. Wayne Kluttz boomed over from two yards out in a slam over guard, but a penalty nullified the run for the point.

Troutman took the ensuing kickoff and marched back on a 64-yard drive to go ahead for keeps on End Braxton Bridgers' placement. A 33-yard pass from McLean to Dale Rogers picked up the touchdown to climax the drive, featured by McLean runs and a 27-yard sprint by wingback Johnny Murdock. Bridgers' boot gave the Bobcats a 7-6 halftime lead.

Troutman took the second half kickoff and marched it downfield on a 73-yard sustained drive. A 13-yard pass from McLean to Bridgers featured the drive, with McLean plunging the final yard into paydirt. Bridgers again booted the point for a 14-6 margin.

West Rowan moved out to their own 43 in their best effort in the third period, but fumbled and Bridgers recovered for the Bobcats. In the fourth period, West's best penetration was to the Troutman 44. A defensive lapse in the first half resulted in Bill Dulin's forwards being keyed up for Troutman's second half effort that pulled the Bobcats away for keeps.

Troutman's TD in the fourth period came after a pass interception. Mike Morgan pulled in the theft at the Troutman 44 and lugged it back to the West Rowan 20. A ground attack, with McLean

LOTTIE WALKER

Hi Friends,

Our girls are really studying hard in school. It will not be very long until we get our first report cards and we're hoping to make some good grades.

We're happy to have four new girls in our cottage, who are Penny and Linda Philips, Patsy Clark, and Brenda Ivey who are in the first, fourth, third, and eighth grade. We have another new member of our family who is a baby collie named Lassie.

Our girls are thrilled over getting new venetian blinds. We are also enjoying fresh apples from the orchard—they disappear as soon as we get them.

RUMPLE HALL

Hi There!

Here we are again with our little bits of news. A lot has happened since last month. Our football team has started the season off pretty good! We are second place in the conference, having lost only one conference game. Let's hope they keep up the good work.

Everyone had a big time at the fair in September. That was all everyone talked about for a whole week after it left.

We are looking forward to Judge Criswell and the week of special services. From what we've heard about him, this ought to be one of the best weeks of services we've had.

The new cottage is finished, and it's about time for Mrs. Johnson's girls to move in. I know they can't wait.

Everyone is settled in school and down to routine. The first grading period is about over, so that means report cards (ugh!) pretty soon.

That's about all the news, so we'll see you next month.

Linda Sue and
Rumple Hall Girls

HOWARD COTTAGE

Hi Folks,

Howard Cottage girls are saying hello from Lee's Building again. But next time we are sure to be in our new building. We sure have waited a long time while they waited for the rafters and dried out wet spots.

Judge Criswell came to visit our cottage Monday afternoon. All of us had a wonderful time. We love to hear him every night. Our housemothers like to go every morning.

Next week we get our report cards. We like school but we wonder what our grades will look like.

Three of us get to take piano and two of our girls take band.

The leaves on our campus are turning so pretty, red and yellow. You must come to see them and our pretty new house.

Lots of love to all of you,
Howard Girls by Bonnie Trent

UNDER THE STEEPLE

By Rev. Hugh B. Carter, Jr.

We have just observed our Fall Week of Spiritual Enrichment, led this year by the Hon. Judge Walter Scott Criswell of Jacksonville, Florida. Judge Criswell has received several national awards for his work with children during the past forty years, more than thirty of which he presided over the Juvenile Court in Jacksonville. He is a kindly, simple, strong man, a man whose first love is the Christ who said, "Let the little children come unto me . . ." Each week, he publishes a bulletin entitled "Somebody's Boy," in which he recounts stories of yesteryear when he was in the business of raising children (he was a founder of the Jacksonville Boy's Home), and giving counsel to some 50,000 boys and girls who looked with questioning eyes into his face in the Children's Court. In a recent issue, he tells the following story entitled "Asme."

My palatial sleeping quarters were not so far away but that I could hear "Biddy" wheezing and whimpering in his bed in the Little Boys' Dormitory.

He had childhood asthma. He had no parents. His relatives were shiftless, shifty and uncertain.

He was pitiful out there sleepless in the dark and with that wheezy, choking sensation—while the other boys were sprawled and relaxed in blissful sleep.

He knew I would come. And I did come. My therapy was to bundle him up in an old shapeless red bath robe which had been 'bestowed' on us and for which Biddy had a strong liking. Boys have strange, strong likings, don't they?

When he saw me coming in the dim night light, he would smother his wheezing, smile with eyes made bright by tears, and hold up his arms to be picked up and 'wropped' in the faded bath robe.

Our therapy was rather simple. We would go into our palatial quarters, first hereinbefore and above mentioned, subside into a big soft chair before the open fireplace, with Biddy on my well upholstered bosom and lap, and look at the fire. And there would be an application of Vicks Vapor Rub with the warmth folded in by raggedy but warm robe.

The fire would flame and flicker, something like our conversation. And everything was quiet and cozy.

Biddy liked to talk about his home in a nearby town. It was "on the Rail Road" and when the trains came roaring along "you thought they were coming right inter the house."

He liked the old-fashioned Mogul whistles that moaned and made mournful music which one could hear "miles before the train got there." It was so much better than "them air compression whistles that go 'Blap, Blap, and don't have no music in them."

"Cap, don't you like them whistles better than them new 'Blap Blap' ones?"

Of course I did.

Then I remember we discussed such metaphysical matters as "Where's Heaven, Cap?" He wanted to know because they told him his mother went there. They told him this a "long time ago—he just could remember."

I dodged in a manner worthy of a professional Theologian. "Why Biddy, Heaven is where God and your mamma is—and where all good little boys will go when they get old and die."

"But is it a place?" he asked, looking up at me, wide-eyed.

So, I had to say it was a "place" of some kind, not like any place we know about, but a place where every one was kind to every one else, and no one ever died, and where all the families came together and knew each other"—and so on.

I noticed that Biddy had grown limp and his breath came easily and regularly, and his eyes were closed.

So I gently rolled him up in his battered bathrobe, and softly put him in his little bed and tucked the covers around him. He sighed, but he didn't wake up.

Maybe he was trying to figure out my sketchy specifications about Heaven.

Sometimes, in the therapy sessions, we would both go to sleep. Then the Little Captain would gently wake me up and see that I put Biddy to bed.

CHICKEN AND "BIDDY"

Who was "Biddy"?

Well he was a motherless child with an older brother called Chicken. Chicken was so named because when he came to our haphazard, but relatively happy family, his face was scratched "Jes like a chicken had flew at him and scratched him," as one of our youngsters announced.

So he was called "Chicken." What could the little brother be called but "Biddy."

I really can't remember their other and real names—nor all the details of their coming to or leaving the "Home."

But I know Biddy grew up and outgrew his "Asme" and became a man and used to look at me affectionately and shyly.

Of course we, being men, never mentioned my rocking him to sleep. But we never forgot it.

Somebody else was his mother,
Somebody else was his dad.
  Some thoughtless father
  Had found him a bother—
A smilin' faced, wee, lonesome lad.

Somebody left him to someone,
A chip on life's treacherous sea.
  His wail was a song
  'N he didn't go wrong
When his little arms reached up to me.

He wasn't what you'd call a beauty,
He was sickly, the poor little chap,
  And the whole day was closed
  When he wrinkled his nose
'N went sound asleep on my lap.

He hasn't much chance to be president
With a dad who's a fellow like me,
  But Johnny's a boy
  Who can take pain 'n joy
With the same kind o' smile, don't you see.

'N somewhere ahead is the glory
Which only together we'll win.
  He'll win it, that lad,
  'N I'll be the dad.
Of the man his real dad could o' been.

—Driftwood.

Hollingsworth Conducts In-Service Training

During the week of October 30, Mr. Hansel H. Hollingsworth, associate director of the Group Child Care Project, will be at Barium Springs conducting on-campus staff training.

"The Group Child Care Project is five years old. It was begun in 1956 to provide a service consisting of on-campus staff training (with particular emphasis for houseparents) and consultation for institutions within a designated area. The Project arranges for a consultant to spend 4-5 days on the grounds of each institution and, in addition, to assist throughout the year in any other ways that would be helpful. A variety of teaching approaches have been developed by consultants and are geared to the needs, the personnel and the basic philosophy of each institution being served. Most usually, each executive works out with the consultant the general pattern and approach which the service will follow within his institution. The consultant attempts to fit himself into the life of this organization during the time that he is on the grounds and, from the vantage point, studies and considers with staff members the concerns, reactions, techniques and questions that they may have. He does so in the light of the experience of other institutions, knowledge of human development and child welfare, and general understanding of the know-how and skills most needed by staff workers."

Barium Springs feels extremely fortunate to be a part of the project and in having Mr. Hollingsworth to conduct the in-service training program on the campus.

The Count Down

Ten, twenty, thirty, fifty, one hundred, two hundred—on and on the count goes as preparations get underway for the distribution and mailing of the Thanksgiving envelopes and materials. Your church will be receiving these materials around the first of November. One packet going to your church will contain envelopes for the individual's use in making a Thanksgiving offering; another will have a poster and pamphlets telling in story form something about the work at the home.

Annual Meeting Of Child Caring Association Is Held

Staff members of child caring institutions throughout North Carolina met at Mills Home, Thomasville, North Carolina, on October 5, 1961, for the 1961 annual meeting of the North Carolina association of Child Caring Institutions.

The theme of the day was, "School Achievement for the Institutional Child." Dr. F. Reed Isaacs, executive director of the Methodist Board of Child Care, Baltimore, Maryland, delivered the inspirational address.

Group participation was made possible by the scheduling of three sectional meetings with morning and afternoon sessions. Dr. Isaacs, led the executives; Mr. Frank J. Peirce, lecturer in Social Work at the School of Social Work at the University of North Carolina, the houseparents; and Mr. H. H. Hollingsworth, Associate Director of the Group Child Care Project, Chapel Hill, the caseworkers.

The staff and children of Mills Home served a delicious lunch to the assemblage.

Miss Anne Bryan of Banner Elk, was elected president and W. R. Williams of Morganton was elected vice-president.

Re-elected as secretary was Miss Rebekah Carpenter of Barium Springs.

Next meeting of the association will be on October 4, 1962, at the Congregational - Christian Home at Elon College.

Board Meeting Scheduled

The regular fall meeting of the Board of Regents will be held on the campus at Barium Springs on Thursday, November 9. The president of the Board, Mr. M. C. Benton, Jr., of Winston-Salem is, also, requesting every member of the Board to be present for special meetings on Wednesday afternoon and evening, the 8th. Highlighting the Wednesday afternoon meeting will be a program by the dental committee to tell the story of a "decade of dental service" to the boys and girls at Barium Springs. On Wednesday evening, Dr. Alan Keith-Lucas, head of the School of Social Work at Chapel Hill, will speak to the Board. Dr. Keith-Lucas will review the work of the Home and project goals for the future.

Mr. Hugh Arrowood, of Shelby; Dr. Edward D. Baker, of Raleigh; Mrs. Feliz O. Gee, of Lexington; Mrs. Philip Howerton, of Matthews; and Mr. Charles S. Wilkins, of Greensboro, begin their first term on the governing board at the fall meeting.

Excerpts . . .

(Taken from concluding remarks by Dr. Alan Keith-Lucas to a workshop for administrators of Children's Institutions held under the auspices of the Child Welfare League of America and the School of Social Work, University of North Carolina.)

What can I say to you at the end of this week? I could, with perfect truth, tell you what you already know: that if any man wants to know the real meaning of the expression "Christian Fellowship" he should come to one of these Workshops in Chapel Hill. For however wide we spread our net, from Kansas to Puerto Rico, from Miami to New York to Chicago, we always find in Chapel Hill a group that has a common steadfast purpose and yet a thousand different ways of reaching it; that can disagree vocally and courageously without losing sight for one moment of its common bond; that can argue without carping and differ without trying to score on the other fellow; that never puts on a show to make a good impression but shares its mistakes as well as its successes and that treats each other's ideas with tolerance and respect.

I would like to re-emphasize a few very general convictions that these Workshops seem to me to underline.

That this is a most exciting and promising field.

That group-care is something to be offered proudly, sensitively and with conviction to those who need it at some time of their lives more than they need anything else.

That the field offers an ever-increasing challenge.

That this is a sphere for those who have both a sense of calling and a keen brain, both feeling and judgment, both the right spirit and the practical ability to put their ideals into practice.

That the church, as it affirms both its concept of the right end of man and of its responsibility to make use of all God's gifts in pursuing this, is adding a depth to our understanding of people.

Let me go back for a moment to an ancient writer whose work I have been re-reading these past few weeks and who had perhaps one of the most intensive and practical views of mankind and his world that has ever been presented—Saint Thomas Aquinas. As I read him, Saint Thomas believed that there were three necessary pre-requisites to right action. One was Reason—rigorous thinking, the sort of thinking that I hope we have been doing this week. One was Grace—all that we know by Divine revelation and through our faith. And the third was a virtue which he called "prudence" or "practical wisdom." This is the ability to take what we know by reason or what our convictions tell us, to recognize its validity and yet to apply it in a very practical way to the limitations of our situations, to make compromises knowing that they are compromises but yet necessary, and never to rationalize a compromise into a principle.

And so let us get back to our jobs and, as best God may permit us, put our reason, our convictions and our common-sense to work.

Children Learn What They Live

If a child lives with criticism, he learns to condemn.

If a child lives with hostility, he learns to fight.

If a child lives with fear, he learns to be apprehensive.

If a child lives with pity, he learns to feel sorry for himself.

If a child lives with jealousy, he learns to feel guilty.

If a child lives with encouragement, he learns to be confident.

If a child lives with tolerance, he learns to be patient.

If a child lives with praise, he learns to be appreciative.

If a child lives with acceptance, he learns to love.

If a child lives with approval, he learns to like himself.

If a child lives with recognition, he learns to have a goal.

If a child lives with fairness, he learns what justice is.

If a child lives with honesty, he learns what truth is.

If a child lives with security, he learns to have faith in himslef.

If a child lives with friendliness, he learns that the world is a nice place in which to live.

tor of the weekly bulletin entitled "Somebody's Boy."

Among many honors bestowed upon him through the years is the Meritorious Service Award from the National Council of Judges and the Outstanding Citizen Award of the American Legion.

The Chancel Choir, under the direction of Mrs. Clinton Clontz, offered anthems at each service, and a period of hymn singing and prayer was led by the minister.

Judge Criswell was entertained by several of the children's cottages, members of the staff and members of the church. During his brief stay on the campus, he endeared himself to all. Among his many personal comments from the pulpit, he promised to pray for the congregation here "every day, as long as I live." It was a week of enrichment and inspiration for all who heard him.
